

ANGIE TRUEBLOOD

As a podcast visibility expert, founder of The Podwize Group and host of the 'Go Pitch Yourself' podcast, Angie Trueblood knows that the true value of podcasting as a marketing tool exists when leading with value and focusing on building a genuine connection. Whether she is teaching entrepreneurs how to leverage the power of podcasts through guesting and/or hosting or working behind the scenes to secure opportunities for others, Angie leverages her super-connector powers to grow businesses and build long-lasting relationships.

When she's not working with her clients or being active in her local community, Angie loves exploring Richmond, Virginia's incredible outdoors with her two kiddos, checking out new restaurants with her hubs, and laughing about motherhood over cocktails with friends.

AS FEATURED ON

GENERAL TOPICS

- Podcast Guesting as a Visibility Strategy
- Pitching Effectively and Efficiently
- Converting and Leveraging Podcast Interviews
- Growing your Authority + Network with Podcasting
- Being a Gracious Podcast Host

SAMPLE QUESTIONS

- When are business owners 'expert enough' to pitch themselves?
- How do you develop talk topics that are appealing to podcast hosts and their audience?
- Share some of the most common mistakes you see people making when pitching for interviews?
- How do podcast guesting and podcast hosting differ in the role they play in business growth?
- Why are you such a strong advocate of business owners publishing their episodes on a bi-weekly schedule?

CONTACT

thepodwizegroup.com

angie@thepodwizegroup.com

 thepodwizegroup

 thepodwizegroup

